General/Operational Updates

Forestry Update:

- The fall planting contract is coming to a close. The contractor has been using a tree spade which gives an opportunity to amend the soil.
- The forestry crew has been doing some of the work usually contracted out to help balance some of the higher costs the city has been experiencing. They have been grinding some of the stumps and planted all the fall cost share trees. Staff is also planning to self-perform one of the sections on the winter pruning contract if the bid responses come in as anticipated.
- Residents have responded positively to the increased level of service. Residents are given more of an opportunity interact with staff when they are out working in the right-of-way
- Upcoming Central Ohio Urban Forestry Conference in February.
- UA Urban Forestry Master Plan Review and Update – Current staff work load necessitates a delay in this process. Scheduled for 2024/25.

Horticulture Update:

- 2022 is wrapping up with the completion of the Tremont Rd. streetscape renovation. We are anxious to see lots of flowers in the spring with the daylily and cat mint in bloom.
- The hanging basket contract for 2023-2024 at the Mallway and Tremont Rd. will soon be going out to bid.
- Grass Groomers has become Yellowstone Landscape and has completed a successful year with the landscape maintenance contract and their contract will be renewed for next year.
- We are already planning out next year's work on selecting annuals for the Northam History Walk.

5. Discussion items

- Education Outreach – JP, Karla, Laura

JP and Sam have been discussing a top 10 list of issues for education including invasives, weed eater damage, construction, vines on trees, appropriate species for location and fear of large trees. Using links on the city website is a valuable tool for residents to access information.

We are also looking into how police can help us deter solicitation for tree companies going door to door. A solicitation permit is needed to do work, but we have no way to enforce this with staff.

- Brand Presentation – Community Affairs, Brian Hedge

We want universal appeal for Parks & Recreation. Brian went through and explained the process.

To unify departments and the community center, the brand will be built into the building and website with visuals. The cities new brand will be rolling out soon.

- ODNR Urban Reforestation Grant

- Species list review- Included in the packet. This list will be based on availability.
- Contract services- Contractual services used for the grant will use prevailing wage.

- Hilliard Tree Commission Invite

Hilliard Commission would like to meet with Upper Arlington Commission to network and share ideas.

- Arbor Day 2023

Arbor Day is on Friday April 28th. If commissioners would like to attend we can get details by the next meeting.

6. Updates from staff-Sam Simmons

- General/Operational Forestry updates

The winter pruning contract was approved by council. The contractor is pruning two thirds of the contract and staff will be pruning one third in house. Staff is doing more including some of the stump, removal and pruning contracts in house in addition to the cost share tree plantings.

We are combining the tree removal and stump contracts as one contract this year instead of separate contracts.

The planting contract is being bid as one contract for spring and fall to lock in costs. Kim will be speaking at the Ohio Tree Care Conference and the city arborists will all be attending the conference.

- Park updates

City staff have been using the brush hog at Northwest, Thompson and Northam Parks to knock down the weeds.

7. Friends of UA Parks – Karla Gengler-Nowak

Friends of UA will be working on honeysuckle removal on the south side of Fancyburg. On April 15th FOUAP will be planting 350 trees at the Thompson Wetlands.

8. Horticulture Update – Libby Roach

We are wrapping up our 23/24 contracts. Bids are much higher this year. Bildsten will be doing the Mallway and Northam but we will not be doing baskets on Tremont Rd. until after construction on Tremont Rd. is done. Yellowstone Landscape will be doing landscape maintenance and Clover will be doing the spring clean-up. We will be doing new wildflower/pollinator seeding at several parks around town this year, planning and ordering seed for these projects now. Last but not least, we will be packing the Northam History walk full of color again this year. Annuals have already been ordered.

9. Future meetings – topics and location

Tree Commission will be taking a one hour ethics training class for the city.

Recruitment and Retention: Why Cities Need Large Trees

Presenter: Kim Landsbergen, Ph.D., Antioch College

Urban foresters know that “megadendrophobia” is real. Ecologically, what do large DBH trees do for communities that smaller trees don't? What information beyond iTree reports can we use to persuade cities and landowners to retain and maintain large trees? How have the last 20 years of urban development impacted urban canopy structure and function? These questions and more will be addressed by summarizing recent scientific findings on urban ecosystem function.

Review: Children's primer, 'The ABCs of Trees,' contains lessons for all ages

Margaret Quamme Special to The Columbus Dispatch

Published 10:00 a.m. ET Dec. 4, 2022

Trees are so much part of the scenery in central Ohio that it's easy to forget that they're there, and they're remarkable.

Scott A. Zanon's new children's book, "The ABCs of Trees," aims to remedy this lack of attention.

Zanon, who lives in Upper Arlington, is the author of two previous books aimed at adults, "Landscaping with Trees in the Midwest" and "Desirable Trees for the Midwest."

Using an alphabetical format allows him to convey sentence-length nuggets of information without talking down to his young audience. The caregivers who are reading to kids can either expand on the subjects and answer questions, or simply move on the next letter in the alphabet.

THE ABCs OF TREES A FIRST BOOK ABOUT TREES

By Scott A. Zanon

The ABCs of Trees (Oren Village, $19.95, 28 pages) by Scott A. Zanon Courtesy Of Scott A. Zanon

Some of the entries are relatively simple and straightforward: Under “B is for Bark,” for example, the explanation reads, “The outward covering or ‘skin’ of the tree.” “F Is for Food” includes the explanation, “Just like you, trees must be fed and nourished in order to grow.”

Others may require a little more explanation by whomever is reading the book to a kid: For “C Is for Chlorophyll,” the explanation reads, “Green pigment in plants that absorbs energy from sunlight necessary for photosynthesis.”

The book also earns points for having an entry for “X” that is not “xylophone.”

“X Is for Xylem: Main part of the tree trunk made up of tiny tubes which transport water and minerals from the roots up the trunk and branches to the leaves.”

Two coloring pages at the end of the book add an extra interactive touch.

Scott A. Zanon, author of "The ABCs of Trees" The Columbus Dispatch

The book is illustrated with playful, semi-abstract watercolors by Cincinnati-based artist Mitchell James, who studied both design and horticulture at Ohio State.

A child plays in falling leaves, an adult and a child water an apple tree, a squirrel scurries in the understory and insects climb on the branches of trees.

While the no-nonsense text sticks to the facts, the soft-focus illustrations invite imagination and exploration. Their style, which often has the feel of fingerpainting, might inspire imitation by young artists.

Together, the text and illustrations happily unite logical and artistic approaches to their subject matter.

The age range for kids who might enjoy the book varies widely. Toddlers might appreciate turning the pages and looking at and commenting on the pictures, while older kids with a horticultural bent and a fascination with new vocabulary could use the book as a jumping-off point for further exploration of the natural world.

Almost anyone reading it, from kid to adult, will learn something new in the process.

“The ABCs of Trees” can be ordered from desirabletrees.com.
